

FILM STUDIES

School of Visual Studies

EXPLORE YOUR OPPORTUNITIES

Mizzou's film studies and film production courses combine critical thinking, research, written expression and cultural literacy with the discipline's unique attention to visual analysis covering the topics of:

- film analysis
- film theory and genres
- history of cinema
- screenwriting
- editing
- documentary film
- contemporary visual culture

Scan for more info.

HANDS-ON EXPERIENCE

Film Studies students work with state-of-the-art equipment and accomplished faculty who are also professional filmmakers, as well as a network of School of Visual Studies alumni that can help jump-start their careers. Internship opportunities are available locally, regionally and abroad including:

- True/False Film Festival
- Citizen Jane Film Festival
- American Film Institute
- Library of Congress Film Archive
- Biscuit Filmworks

PROMINENT POSITIONS

Our graduates are securing positions in all areas of design at big-name companies such as: Netflix, Warner Brothers, Discovery Network, NBC Universal, A+E Networks and Disney — making their mark in the world of film in jobs such as:

- Camera Operator
- Art Director
- Film Editor
- Cinematographer
- Location Manager
- Film Producer
- Screenwriter
- Content Creator
- Corporate Video Producer
- Lighting Designer
- Digital Media Producer
- Teacher
- Public Relations
- Broadcasting